Each one of our outstanding peer reviewers has been carefully selected by our editorial team as having made significant contributions to peer review. In addition to reviewers who provided a high number of quality reports, we are pleased to highlight reviewers who provided exceptionally thorough and detailed reports, reviewers who provided clear and insightful adjudicative reports and reviewers who made additional efforts to aid authors in improving their manuscripts.

“Peer review is a noble and generous way of sharing knowledge and helping to improve the work of colleagues. While it is true that reviewers have the opportunity to read and explore innovative work or integration of knowledge at first hand, it is also true that in doing so they give up part of their time to contribute to a common cause, namely the generation and dissemination of scientific knowledge. Reviewers’ rigour, humbleness and honesty, as well as punctuality and clarity, are key to the success of good science communication” – Professor Célia Manaia, Professor Kevin Jones, and
